

Application Services

Evolver offers the full life cycle of application development for clients in a variety of industries. Our dedicated software development team builds mobile, collaboration and customer service applications. Our experience includes building applications for project management, data collections and review, customer care, data management, and many others. We can build virtually any application, on any platform, for varying client needs.

Application Managed Services

Evolver has the expertise in user support, business models, and maintenance and operations within a managed services environment to help organizations of all sizes from small commercial firms to large government agencies. We know how to maximize the business benefits of managed applications for our clients. Our assistance includes:

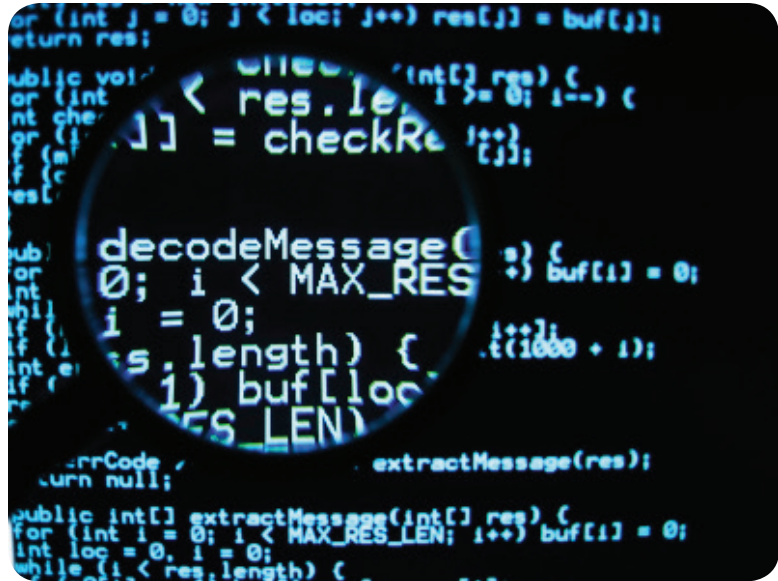

- Manage existing applications that are currently in a managed services environment
- Migrate existing applications into managed services environments
- Build and deploy new applications for managed services environments

DevOps

Evolver brings the expertise of DevOps to our own software development and in support of our client's development efforts. Our extensive experience in running large scale operations combined with our agile software development experience allows us to logically plan, segment, provision and execute DevOps programs. We emphasize communication and collaboration among the software developers, IT and operations teams throughout the entire development lifecycle. This provides our clients with higher quality solutions with quicker time to market, higher user satisfaction and reduced risk and cost.

Agile Software Development

Traditional development approaches can be very rigid and don't allow for change during development. Our software development methodology involves an agile, collaborative process among software developers, IT and operations. Through every aspect of development, small deliverables are reviewed by the teams, allowing for the flexibility to make changes and ultimately deliver a better solution that better meets the needs of the client.

Continuous Delivery

Applications that we build for our clients are continually improved upon, and enhancements, new features and bug fixes are automatically pushed out to our clients. We understand that delivery is more than just making software available, therefore we address and provide an approach to training, support and maintenance with each delivery. We have the tools and skills, from automated testing to continuous integration to dynamic version control, that allow for the rapid deployment of software while managing the risk.

Mobile Solutions

Today's workforce is mobile. Clients are demanding instant access to complex functionality while on the go. It requires planning and understanding of the limitations and opportunities that mobile offers. Evolver draws on decades of development experience across many platforms to give you the help you need in your mobile project. We provide full life cycle mobile application development including design consulting on virtually any platform.

Collaboration Solutions

Improve your workflow, optimize processes and reduce costs with Evolver's collaboration solutions. We help our clients connect and collaborate internally and externally. We have experience with complete Sharepoint development and deployment and other collaborative environments.

Customer Service Applications

Evolver can build or modify existing applications that improve your interactions with your customers. For example, we have created applications to improve construction, automotive, financial and government operations.
