AI Enabled Solution Designed for Data Mining During Incident Response

At Evolver, we understand the pressing challenges organizations face when it comes to identifying sensitive information and promptly notifying relevant parties in the event of an incident. The current manual processes are not only time-consuming, but also error-prone, leading to unnecessary costs and delays. This is where WatchtowerAI emerges as the ultimate purpose-built solution for data mining during incident response.

Our Solution: WatchtowerAI

WatchtowerAI leverages the power of AI to revolutionize data mining during incident response (IR).

Our cutting-edge tool is equipped to automatically identify over 617 reportable Personally Identifiable Information (PII) and Protected Health Information (PHI) elements. But that's just the beginning.

The critical breakthrough lies in our ability to associate entity owners with these sensitive elements – PII and PHI.

This revolutionary tool significantly reduces the need for human intervention in data extraction and entity association during the ingestion process.

Why WatchtowerAI?

The current method relies on manual methods or reverse-engineered eDiscovery technology, resulting in over and under-inclusive search results. We've taken a different approach, producing a consolidated and deduplicated notification list that minimizes the need for human intervention.

WatchtowerAI Benefits

Efficiency Redefined

Our solution offers a quicker, more efficient, and cost-effective path to notification, surpassing industry standards.

Error Reduction

By reducing manual and human work, we eradicate errors, ensuring the highest quality results.

Timely Support

We empower cyber lawyers and their clients with the information they need in a timely manner, enabling them to meet the strict regulatory deadlines.

With WatchtowerAI, you're not just getting software; you're getting a game-changing solution that streamlines data mining during incident response, reduces errors, and empowers you and your clients to meet regulatory requirements efficiently. It's time to embrace the future of incident response with WatchtowerAI.
